This year, the UN International Holocaust Remembrance Day commemorates the 70th anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz concentration camp on January 27, 1945. This roundtable will discuss new approaches and debates in the scholarship on genocides and reflect on the complex and painful legacies of genocides - from the Holocaust to the 1994 Rwandan genocide and beyond - and how the memory and awareness of genocides influences social attitudes and political behaviour today.

Dr Tesfaye's new Book entitled "Statistique(s) et génocide au Rwanda : la genèse d'un système de catégorisation "génocidaire"" will also be launched on this occasion.
